

MARCH 9, 2020

Accume Partners understands our clients' need for impeccable and timely delivery of services. Our commitment to meeting and exceeding your expectations remains constant and unchanged by the evolving coronavirus outbreak. Accume has an established Pandemic Response Plan (PRP) to ensure continued quality and timely service delivery in the face of the growing pandemic threat represented by the coronavirus.

Accume has a comprehensive, scalable framework of technology, systems and procedures that provides the firm with the capability to continue its critical and noncritical functions during a declared pandemic event. The technology allows for safe, secure system access and data storage, video conferencing, desktop collaboration and screen sharing. When onsite, and as appropriate, employees will practice social distancing to minimize staff contact and will follow recommended hygiene practices as recommended by the CDC. Accume Partners' employees are strategically positioned in different geographic areas, providing the ability to conduct work from an alternate region when necessary. Accume will work with our clients to determine when onsite services can be effectively addressed remotely.

Accume's Pandemic Response Plan (PRP) is aligned with the World Health Organization (WHO) and Center for Disease Control (CDC) pandemic stages. Accume will be monitoring Coronavirus situation updates as they occur from the WHO, CDC and regional and local government. The primary focus for situation updates will be in regions in which Accume Partners provides service to our clients and in which our professionals reside and work. To reduce the likelihood that Accume will be significantly affected by a pandemic event we will, in addition to monitoring situation updates, be training employees and communicating appropriately with our service providers and clients.

If there are any questions on Accume's Pandemic Response Plan (PRP), or if your organization would like to discuss your own plan with our continuity specialists, please let me know.

Michael Barrack
Chief Executive Officer
Accume Partners
mbarrack@accumepartners.com